THE New Orleans Cotton Market is fully as high as that of New York. The cost of having Cotton shipped from Memphis and sold in New Orleans is 2 cts. per pound. To have it shipped to the Eastern market costs 3 to 3½ cts per pound. Where instructions are given to sell on arrival the shipper to New Orleans gets account sales in eight days, and the shipper East in twenty to twenty-five days. The New Orleans market is not subject to the violent fluctuations of the Eastern markets, as prices in the former city are more controlled by the Liverpool and Manchester quotations.

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

MEMPHIS:

FRIDAY, : : : : : : : : : APRIL 26, 1867

POLITICAL MORALS OF RADICALISM

HENRY WARD BEECHER, who delivers political harangues from the pulpit, of Sundays, amid "laughter and applause," thus testified, lately, as to the rascality of the men of his own party who make laws at Washington for the United States and their subject Provinces, and at Albany for the state of New York:

"The men at Washington and Albany sold their country; they sold their humanity and their honor, and the trusts that were put upon them by their constituents. They were debauchers of the young; they were the traitors; they that lifted the sword were not half so much traitors; they that despoiled the old banner and trod it under foot; they that fired upon the government of the United States were not so much traitors as were those vermin who were crawling under the foundation and destroying by corruption the vital power of the government."

Brother BEECHER ought to consider that after a four years' war, in which it was laudable to steal and plunder from the enemy, and patriotic in Government agents and contractors to cheat, swindle, defraud and rob the Government itself, a little demoralization of those who have valuable votes to sell must be expected. The votes of some Northern Senators could be bought before the war, we know: and there have been fine pickings lately in the way of patronage and railroad-lands. The law of demand and supply is universal; and when legislative votes command high prices, the supply will be equal to the demand. Of course the price is somewhat higher in the Senate than in the House. It was much more so, formerly, before the porwiggle States had made Senatorial honours cheap.

A GOOD MOVE.

From the New York World.

The democratic state committee of Connecticut is to meet at New Haven on Thursday of this week, to take into consideration such measures as may be necessary to protect the workingmen of Portland and Rockville against the course pursued by their employers in depriving them of employment or forcing them to vote contrary to their oaths and the dictates of their own consciences; and to consider whether the laboring classes can be protected by that provision of the constitution of the state which requires the general assembly to pass laws to protect the free ballot, by prohibiting, "under adequate penalties, all undue influence from power, bribery," etc., and in compliance with which the state has required by law every elector to swear by his Maker that he will give his vote "as he shall judge will conduce to the best good" of the state or United States, "without respect of persons or favor of any man." This is a move in the right direction. Previous to the recent election, the republicans of Connecticut made great ado over the workingmen, but since then not a word of this kind has been heard from them. The democrats propose to prove their faith by their works, and show now, as they have always shown in times past, that they are the true friends of the working classes.

The negroes of Tennessee had better insist upon pledges from those who ask their votes for seats in the next Legislature of Tennessee, that they will enact a similar law, if they wish to be safe in voting as they please when they shall have found out that they have been cheated. The persecution by Radicalism of those of them who dare to be independent, has already begun.

PATRIOTISM.

"PATRIOTISM, sir," said Doctor JOHNSON, "is the last refuge of a scoundrel."

"Where Right once ruled, hyenas prowl for prey,
Where justice reigned, hounds yell and asses bray;
And cormorants in churches make their nest,
And buzzards on Christ's holy altars rest;
And misbegotten knaves, with proud misrule
Make brave and freeborn men, like boys at school,
To the whip cringe and tremble."

A New Orleans correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer thus photographs a few of the Loyalists of Louisiana:

A few of the managers who were beggars before the war have managed by the most corrupt and villainous means to get life-estates in some of the confiscated property of our citizens. It was thus Fish got one hundred thousand dollars of John Slidell's property. Hahn got a fine residence of another citizen. Waples, who before the war, lived in a garret, and took his meals in the market, carnivals in the elegant villa of Gen. Hays, one of the most gallant and high-toned officers in the Confederate army. Day draws a revenue of fifteen thousand dollars a year from the lease of D. F. Kenner's property. Crane, whose sole support before the war was from the hire of his wife's slaves, is now a nabob. Durant has gone into honorable martyrdom with three hundred thousand dollars solid cash, the proceeds of the property accumulated here during his persecutions, and so on through the whole list of them. When rebel violence and persecution are turned to such good account, can you wonder at the descent upon us of pest hordes from the northern wasp nest, in eager pursuit of the property and money of the accursed rebels?

MISSISSIPPI ITEMS.

—Rt. Rev. Bishop Green was at Hernando on the 18th inst., accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Burton, held service in the Masonic hall.

—The Woodville Republican, of the 13th, contains the synopsis of a speech delivered by Hon. H. F. Simrall, at a meeting of the people of Wilkinson county, held on the 6th inst.:

"Mr. Simrall counsels prompt action and compliance with the military bill, though it is repugnant. He thinks the idea of the executive and supreme court having power to restrain radical action to be a snare, and says that none should refrain from registration."

—The Episcopal convention of the diocese of Mississippi meets at Christ church in Vicksburg on the 25th inst.

—The Clarion says: "A subscriber writing us from Louisville, Miss., on 17th instant, furnishes the following items: 'A daughter of Mr. Elijah Lindsay, a highly respectable citizen of this county, was accidentally drowned, on Monday morning last, while crossing a creek on her way to school. The creek was very much swollen by the heavy rain of the night previous. Mr. Lindsay came near being drowned also in attempting to rescue his daughter. She was about thirteen years old.'"

—The same paper says an atrocious rape was committed last week on the person of the daughter of one of the most worthy citizens of that community, living in the northern portion of the county. The perpetrator was a negro man unknown to the unfortunate girl, and has not as yet been indentified.

—Gen. Ord has issued a circular throughout the districts of Arkansas and Mississippi, forbidding any election to fill existing vacancies until a registration of voters is completed. Article second of the circular is as follows:

"Local civil officers of existing provisional governments of the states of Arkansas and Mississippi will continue in the performance of their duties until the expiration of the terms of their offices, unless otherwise directed in special cases, or until their successors may be appointed or elected in accordance with the act of congress to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel states, passed March 2d, 1867;" and article third offers the following excellent advice to colored voters: "The most important duty devolving upon freedmen in their new condition, is that of providing by their own labor for the support of themselves and families. They now have a common interest in the general prosperity. This prosperity does not depend so much on how men vote, as upon how well each member of society labors and keeps his contracts. Freedmen are therefore urged not to neglect their business to engage in political discussions, but continue to comply with their contracts and provide for themselves and families, for unless they do so, a famine may come and they will have no food. When the time comes for them to have their names entered in the books of voters, which will be before next September, the general commanding will send them word through proper United States or county officers, and send the books to places near by their homes, so that every voter can have his name registered, and can afterwards vote without going far from his home. Only those residing in towns will be registered or vote there."

—The Tallahatchian, published at Charlestown, says that a very melancholy rumor has reached that place, to the effect that Rev. J. A. Julian, with his entire family, were drowned by the high waters of the Mississippi several days since. The report is that a break occurred in the levee near his residence, which swept them all away. Mr. Julian's family consisted of himself, wife, three children, and Miss Maria Robson, his wife's sister. The family was well known and very highly esteemed, and their destruction, if it proves true, will be a heavy bereavement to many hearts. We hope the rumor may yet prove unfounded.

FINANCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, }
MEMPHIS, April 25, 1867. }

Our banks report a continued close money market, with little doing in the way of discounts. In a few instances renewals are granted. Rates are about as usual, but street rates have advanced to 5 and 6 per cent. per month.

Gold has declined slightly since yesterday. Brokers offer, at the close today, 38 to 39c.

Silver is steady at 30 to 31c buying, selling at 32 to 33c.

City scrip is in moderate request. Buying at 58 to 60c, and selling at 61 to 62c.

County warrants of the old issue are in moderate demand. Buying at 90 to 91c. Selling at 92 to 93c. The new issue is only in light request at 75 to 78c buying, selling at 80c.

Exchange is in fair demand. Eastern is buying at par to ⅛ premium, and selling at ⅛ to ¼ premium. New Orleans is buying at ⅛ off, and selling at par.

Police scrip is dull and nominal; 75 to 80c offering, and selling at 82 to 83c.

In bonds there is no change and no sales to report. Our quotations are nominal. Memphis and Ohio railroad bonds, 25 to 30c; Memphis and Little Rock first mortgage bonds, 70 to 80c; Memphis and Charleston railroad bonds, 65 to 70c; Tennessee bonds with coupons, 40 to 50c; Tennessee bonds, new, 55 to 60c; Mobile and Ohio railroad bonds, 50 to 55c; Memphis city coupons, 60 to 65c; Memphis city railroad bonds, 50 to 60c.

In uncurrent money there is no activity. Brokers generally are well supplied. There is fair inquiry for the issue of the Union and the Planters' banks of this state, but none offering.

National bank currency to the amount of $49,700 was issued last week by the comptroller of the currency, making the total sum issued to date, less the sum redeemed, $298,950,474.

The securities held by Treasury Spinner, in trust for national banks, on Saturday last, stood as follows:

As security for circulation	$340,610,950
As security for public deposits	38,960,950
Total	$379,571,900

The disbursements of the treasury on account of the several named departments during the week ending the 20th instant were as follows:

War Department	$1,306,965
Navy Department	424,885
Interior Department	655,092
Total	$2,386,942

The loan of thirty millions to the Mexican republic as represented by Juarez, which was advertised for sale by Corlies & Co. in New York sometime ago, promises to prove an unprofitable investment for those who were induced to purchase the bonds by the large discount and high rate of interest offered. The semi-annual interest due on the 1st instant has not been paid by the agents, their plea being that they have no funds to the credit of the republic of Mexico.

The Boston Post reports the opening of "a subscription book for a national bank in Charleston, S. C. The prospectus says the small bank capital there of five hundred thousand dollars is found to be inadequate. Capital is so much needed that money easily commands eighteen per cent. per annum, the laws against usury having been abolished in that state. The two banks in operation in Charleston have paid a dividend of twenty-four per cent. on their capital from the profits of the last year. The stay law passed by the legislature has been pronounced unconstitutional by the highest judicial authority; the same is null and void, and debts can be enforced now in the same manner as formerly. The citizens of Charleston have subscribed for five hundred and sixty-six shares, equal to fifty-six thousand six hundred dollars, to the proposed bank. This subscription can easily be raised to one hundred thousand dollars, as it is ascertained that the bank can be put into operation. The citizens of Charleston, individually as well as the banks, having suffered greatly in their fortunes by the results of the war, have not sufficient funds to enable them to subscribe the full amount of the capital stock of the proposed bank, and therefore capital from abroad has to be sought for. The proposed capital is three hundred thousand dollars, divided into three thousand shares of one hundred dollars each."

STATE ITEMS.

—The Banner of the 22d inst. has the following pertinent allusions to the amiable and accomplished chief magistrate presiding over the destinies of this state: "From all quarters, we hear of the effect which our publication of Brownlow's damning record on slavery is producing among the colored people. Our short extracts, printed in a style that cannot escape notice, are read by all. Pass them along, and let there be everywhere light, light, light!"

—The Press and Times says, "We need at this time all the assistance which talent, learning, integrity and personal influence can give to our congressional ticket." And the Banner thus comments: "Yes, it cannot be denied that those three essentials are very much needed in the Brownlow party at this time—particularly the 'integrity.'"

And elsewhere the Press and Times says that the radical "watchfires are lighted." We are glad to hear it. The brighter they burn the more surely they will reveal the corruption, the malice, and the dishonesty of the Brownlow camp.

—It is officially announced that the railroad bridge at Bridgeport will be completed for use by the 25th instant, and no more ferrying over the Tennessee river will be necessary after that date.

—John Morgan, a soldier of the thirty-fourth United States infantry, was run over by an engine at Chattanooga last Saturday and so horribly mangled that he died in a few hours.

—Notwithstanding the great number of pardons granted by Gov. Brownlow, there are now three hundred and eighty-seven prisoners in the penitentiary.

—The Banner, on the subject of crops, remarks: From all parts of the country we receive encouraging reports from our farming friends, who, taking advantage of auspicious spring weather, are driving their plows and planting vigorously. The prospect for wheat is unprecedented in the counties adjacent to Davidson, and the fields in this county never looked more promising.

—The Knoxville Commercial of the 20th says that town is now the Egypt of the southwest, more corn being in store and yet to come in, than many supposed was produced in the whole state last season.

—The same paper thus forcibly urges the duty of every man to vote: The importance of every man's voting in a contest against the radicals, is forcibly illustrated by the result in Connecticut. One democratic candidate for the senate was defeated by four votes, and this gives the radicals one majority in that body, and twelve more votes would have given the democrats a majority in both houses. We hear, occasionally, of men in this section, who are disposed not to vote at all, because they are disgusted with the situation; we hope they will think and act differently when they reflect upon the value of every vote, and that it is by votes alone, that the situation can be peaceably changed for the better. Remember Connecticut, and every man to the polls!

—The officer lately on duty as post adjutant at Nashville is now being tried by court martial.

—On Saturday, Col. W. G. Blackburn entered upon his duties as state comptroller, vice S. W. Hatchett, resigned.

—The Press and Times learns that the thirty-fourth United States infantry and a squadron of the fifth cavalry, now on duty at Nashville, will shortly be sent to Mississippi.

—Energetic measures are about being commenced to improve the sanitary condition of Nashville, some of the streets being in a very filthy condition. Memphis officials will do well to follow so good an example, for it is much needed.

—A printing house in Buffalo has contracted to supply various firms with over three million almanacs of 1868 for gratuitous distribution.

MEMPHIS, April 25, 1867, 8 p.m. }

GENERAL BUSINESS.

Orders from the country are received daily, and constitutes the greater part of our business transactions. Planters, generally, are too busy in preparing their grounds and planting to visit the city at this season, and it will be some weeks yet before they make their appearance upon our streets in numbers. Merchants from the interior, however, are making spring purchases, mostly for cash, and only select what they immediately need, intending to duplicate as occasion requires. They are all well pleased with the styles and the large stocks from which they can now select, and are thoroughly convinced that our houses are really selling at lower figures than the same goods can be purchased in any southern or western market. Produce is becoming more plentiful since the opening of the upper rivers, and prices are not so firm as a few days ago.

COTTON—There was some life shown by buyers to-day, many of whom were upon the market sampling and feeling the views of factors. Middling, which is about the only grade sought for, would sell at 21 to 22c to fill orders, but speculators would not make any such offers. We are still in the dark relative to the real feeling, as no sales worthy of mention were reported; and, in consequence, can't give quotations. The receipts for the day were 185 bales. Shipments 689 bales.

The whisky frauds are about the most shameless that are practiced upon the government. To put a gallon of whisky in the market costs about twenty-six cents, to which should be added the tax, (two dollars,) and yet whisky is quoted in several eastern markets at from eighty to one hundred cents per gallon. Of course, there is but one explanation, and that is, that the government is defrauded out of the tax, for nobody is prepared to believe that the distillers, more than any other class of people, are willing to throw their money away. If the authorities who have the matter in charge, cannot secure the tax they have levied or punish those who attempt to defraud them out of it, they should abdicate in their favor. There is no propriety in having a government run by simpletons for the benefit of knaves and to the injury of honest men.

New York capitalists are very energetic at present in their railroad enterprises. A new road, to be called the Chattanooga and New Orleans railroad, has been commenced, and is being pushed forward as fast as possible. The company building it have also purchased the right of way of the Wills river railroad, and are now engaged in constructing a road to run to Mobile, Ala. A bridge is to be built across Tensas bay, so that the trains can run directly into the city of New Orleans, and thus save twenty miles of steamboating. The bridge is to be used by the Mobile and Ohio railroad and the Great Northern railroad. It is proposed to have the road extending to New Orleans completed in fourteen months from last March. Many of the small Gulf islands are also to be connected by bridges.

—A year ago it was announced that discoveries of petroleum had been made in some of the provinces of northern Italy by an Englishman. Four different associations have been formed for the purpose of working portions of the territory in question. The discoverer has just had a private audience of the king, who has conferred on him the cross of Saints Maurice and Lazarus, in acknowledgment of the services rendered to Italy by his researches.

—In Georgia in 1866 the value of land was estimated at $103,112,624, and the total value of all property, real and personal, at $222,183,787; a decrease since 1860 of $148,444,135, without taking into consideration the value of the slaves who were emancipated. In 1860 the total value of property in Georgia, including the slaves, was $1,008,485,65. Georgia has a funded debt of about $5,706,500, and the state owns property valued at $900,000.

THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY THE APPROACHING CEREMONIES AT ELMWOOD CEMETERY.

While my heart warms and glows with love and gratitude, I most willingly lay my wreath of immortelles—laurel and ivy—on the cold valley clods which cover the brave and true hearts of our "Confederate dead." Yet, while I would most gladly work till heart and hand both fail to add one iota of comfort to those who have lost both health and homes in our defense, there is one class of "heroes of the rebellion" which have been too much neglected, and have never received their due meed of praise. I mean the "women of the South." It is true we often hear them spoken of as having "done their part," but few seem to think how large a part of the suffering was the share of the mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the gallant "lads in their jackets of gray." How much harder was it to return to the home made sad and desolate, there to weep and to wait, than to mix in the throng of comrades who, with "hearts fired" with the love of freedom and of home, went forth to the battle field as to a marriage festival? Think of it for a moment! Not only did those brave hearts "wait weepingly," but they worked, denying themselves every luxury, every pleasure, and in many, many cases, every comfort. Not only did they bear with the presence of the hated invaders, while their ears were blistered by insulting epithets and curses, both loud and deep; but when night spread her sable mantle over the earth, and we, exhausted by a forced march or a hand to hand fight, sank back into the embrace of sleep, and slumbered sweetly, yes, even soundly, on our blankets, beneath our southern sky, the mother who bore you, the sister with whom you had sported in childhood, and the maiden who had plighted you her faith, cowered tremblingly at the shout of the fiends incarnate, who having wasted with fire and sword everything which lay in their way, went yelling and shouting through the streets, "just for the fun of scaring the women folks."* Truly, man must work and woman must weep," but in the struggle which we have just gone through, woman both wept and worked! But still they wept unseen and often unsuspected for the thought still was, I must not weaken the hearts and hands of the loved ones who are even now, perhaps, fighting desperately for the "green graves of their sires, God and their native land." How few of the women of the south needed the appeal made by one of their own number to the women of Tennessee:

"Oh, maiden! rouse your lover,
And mother, rouse your son!
Nor let their spirits falter,
Till the glorious work be done!"

While, then, the title of Confederate soldier will be a passport to the favor of "fair women and brave men," let us reverentially doff our beavers whenever we meet a true "woman of the south."

*The literal answer of a federal officer when asked why his men "shouted and yelled as they rode through the streets of a town which they had just sacked?"

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, April 19, 1867.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

The motion of the attorney general to dismiss the bills filed for injunction by states of Mississippi and Georgia, was somewhat of a surprise to the counsel for those states. They had supposed that when the bills sought no remedy against the president, the attorney general would take no further concern about the cases. And this was, indeed, the original determination of the attorney general; but he has seen reason to change his programme in this particular. It is thought that this is done by him under the necessity of political pressure. The judiciary committee of the house are here in session on the subject of the president's impeachment, and it is necessary to fortify against them as much as possible. Active resistance to the Georgia and Mississippi bills is acting on that line, and to a certain extent identifies the administration with the popular sentiment of the house. The motion to dismiss the bills, which is to come up next Friday, will necessarily involve the merits of the cases. There is but one opinion—that is, that the court will decline to give the relief sought for. It is thought the court will put their decision on this point: that the court cannot interfere with public functionaries when their duties are not ministerial, but involving discretion.

The matter of Mr. Davis' trial is to be brought forward in the next session of the court at Richmond. The impression is that he will not be tried but bailed. The attorney general has taken the ground that he has nothing to do with this trial, but that it is a matter exclusively within the cognizance of the United States district attorney for the state of Virginia. According to every principle of law he is entitled to his trial or discharge from imprisonment on bail.

The radical leaders are making great efforts to get up demonstrations at various points south among the colored people on their line. In some of their meetings the proceedings are sufficiently extreme. In the convention of whites and blacks at Richmond, an effort was made to endorse the policy of confiscation; but this was given the go-by. Some alarming sentiments of demagogie were announced with resolutions of this Richmond meeting. The conservatives here are watching these demonstrations with the deepest interest. It is ardently desired here by the conservatives that no inflammatory proceeding, to which the colored people are [illegible], may be instigated, shall be made matter of offense by the good people of the south. It is thought to be of the greatest importance that every possible effort should be made south to preserve harmony. It is thought the most important consequences depend upon this. Outbreaks or collisions south would produce the worst possible results.

The senate still remains here, but excessively annoyed at its detention. The number of senators in attendance gradually diminishes, and there is danger of their being left without a quorum. The president has the advantage of them in the wrangle over appointments. They are here at great inconvenience to themselves, and their rejections of nominations do not open the doors of office to their own friends.

The report that negotiations are going on for the annexation of British America is unfounded. This annexation is regarded as a matter for the future, but it has not got so far advanced as to be the subject of direct negotiations. The determination of the northern mind is to take all the territory in the South American continent, which can be obtained peacefully. The next move in this direction will be on Mexico. The moment the Mexican government are willing to mortgage or sell the upper provinces of Mexico, the bargain will be made. The idea in high official circles here is that it will not be very long before the Juarez government will need a loan. As soon as it does the United States are ready to advance the necessary amount and receive possession of Senora and Chihuahua by way of mortgage. This mortgage will serve its day and in due time become a sale absolute and final.

ALABAMA.

—The Montgomery Mail of Friday says: Col. Charles T. Pollard, president of the Western railroad, (Montgomery and Selma), informs us that he has strong hopes of the early completion of this great connecting link with the southwest. Col. Pollard will visit the north in a short time, and will doubtless perfect arrangements for the purchase of the iron. We have already stated that the contract for the building of the road has been let to Boyle & Co., gentlemen in every way competent to complete it according to contract—by the first of 1868. It is all important that Montgomery should be speedily connected with Selma, thus forming a continuous all-rail line to the Mississippi river, New Orleans, etc., etc.

—From the Selma Times we learn arrangements are about completed to place a line of steamers on the Alabama river between Selma and Montgomery, these boats to run in close connection with the Selma and Meridian and Southern Mississippi railroads and the St. Louis and Vicksburg line of packets.

—The Montgomery Mail mentions the arrest in that city of a negro counterfeiter, charged with stealing the unsigned bills of the Montgomery and West Point railroad and forging the signatures. It learns that there are quite a number of counterfeit bills of this company in circulation. He must be a more accomplished penman than any of the race we have met.

—The Daily Independent says Gen. Swayne has commenced the correction of what he calls the abuses of our civil government. The abolishing of the chaingang is not so bad, but the interference with the apprentice system will cause much trouble, we fear.

—Neither Judge Busteed nor Mr. Felder were present at the late Selma meeting, though they were expected to do the speaking. Judge Busteed has been solicited to preside at the conservative meeting to come off at Mobile in a few days.

"Eat and be thankful, slave!"
Why should the helot wish to live?

And Faction, as a crowning curse,
With Martial Law replies.

—R. T. Baker, radical candidate for lieutenant governor of Kentucky, was prevented from speaking at Germantown last Thursday. He was warned that violence would be done him if he attempted to speak. Part of the town was burned.

This company will restrict their business to FIRST-CLASS RISKS. Policies issued from one month to six years. It is a HOME COMPANY pledged and devoted to the furtherance of HOME INTERESTS.

The mutual system has deservedly become the most popular mode of insurance in the United States, and is the one embraced by those best informed upon the subject, and who appreciate and desire security, perpetuity and economy. In a purely mutual company the assured derives all the advantages which can be realized from an insurance, and at the lowest rates, or exact cost, paying no tribute or profits to the proprietors or stockholders for, perhaps, an inadequate capital or security. Cheapness combined with security, and a certainty of accomplishing the object in view, are the essential elements sought for, and they may be found eminently existing in a well conducted mutual insurance company and such a company the Incorporators and Officers propose for the Tennessee State Mutual. Full information will be furnished at the office of the company. There are SEVENTEEN mutual insurance companies in successful operation in St. Louis, covering by their policies SEVEN-EIGHTHS of the real estate of that city. Such is the popularity of the mutual principle in our sister city. ap4 1m

THE PAST: THE GREAT TEACHER.

STATE-RIGHTS AND DEMOCRACY.

In the alliance between the State-rights party of the South and the Democrats of the North, somebody had to be cheated. Which of them that fate befel, the war of separation plainly shows. The alliance was an unnatural one from the beginning; for the fundamental principles of the Northern Democracy, which might be correctly summed up in the motto, 'More license and less government,' were always in irreconcileable hostility with those of the Constitution, as interpreted by the statesmen who followed the lead of MADISON. It is quite true that some of the professions of the party in the North which called itself democratic, were in accordance with the doctrines of the South; but these were invariably falsified by them when they attained power. The doctrines of the Whig party tended less to popularize the government; but that party held to Mr. WEBSTER'S theory of consolidation. Otherwise its principles were conservative, while those of the Democracy were destructive; and therefore it was, that Mr. CALHOUN for a time acted with the Whigs, and with WEBSTER and CLAY opposed Executive usurpation.

PATRICK HENRY clearly enough foresaw that it would be insisted that not the States individually but the one people of all, as a political unit, made the Constitution, because it began with the phrase, "We the people of the United States;" and therefore he opposed its adoption. Such soon came to be the settled doctrine of all the leading men of the North; and Mr. WEBSTER'S argument on that side was held by them to be a triumphant demonstration of the soundness of this theory. As to the right of secession, without which in reserve the constitutional theories of Virginia and South Carolina were emptier than air and idler than vanity, the result has shown that it was held not to exist, by evrey Statesman and politician, large and small, in the Northern States.

A partnership or corporation from which a partner or a stockholder cannot withdraw, is a solecism. It makes him, if wronged or oppressed by the others, contrary to the compact, a slave to them, with no possibility of redress. To suppose such a case, is to suppose a simple absurdity and an impossibility. Of course, the arguments by which the right was denied, were mere sophistry or declamation, except that ultima ratio, war, to which the North appealed, when the South saw fit to exercise the right; all parties and all men in the North joining in the crusade; and even the foreigners just imported, and whose sweet voices had been so much courted by Southern statesmen, giving as it their decided opinion that a State could not, for any cause, secede from the Union which their presence in the country had made so much more valuable.

The Constitution necessarily disappeared, to enable the North to wage the war; as ours nearly did for a time to gratify some of our Generals. Lettres de cachet, despatched even by telegraph, renewed the sad times of Louis XV; and free speech and almost free thought became a crime. All the Democratic and Whig allies of the South deserted her, with the exception, among her favorites, of Ex-President PIERCE; and CASS, BUCHANAN and DICKINSON were seen to vie with each other and with EVERETT and FILLMORE, in zeal for the UNION, in devotion to a FLAG that had become the symbol of Consolidation, in aiding to carry on the war, in endeavoring to conquer and subjugate a united people who only sought to exercise 'the inalienable right' of governing themselves, and who asked only for peace and amity. The favorites of the south have proven themselves the most bitter of her enemies.

When we speak of the compromises of principle which necessarily attended an alliance with the Northern Democracy, we do not allude to most of the measures with which the allies identified themselves, or which they opposed. The creation of a National Bank, Protective Tariffs, the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands, and other like measures, had in themselves nothing which made them alien to the true principles of either the Federal, Democratic, Whig or Republican party. It was the Democratic party, then called Republican, that established the first United States Bank, and the same party created the most protective of our Tariffs. Undoubtedly, these were attempted to be made, and in some measure were made test questions; because when, to create or continue an unnatural alliance, it is necessary for the time being to sink or conceal vital differences of principle, and prevent internal dissension in the amalgam called 'the Party,' other questions or theories must be found or invented, which may unite the allies in the pursuit of a common object, and seem to be a sufficient cause for the alliance. By means of these questions, the abolition Governors of Connecticut and New Hampshire, CLEVELAND and HUBBARD, were enabled to remain in good standing and full fellowship in the Democratic party, and MARTIN VAN BUREN could be its candidate for the Presidency. Still, democratic Pennsylvania and her Statesmen always demanded a protective tariff on iron; and Louisiana, Whig or Democratic, was never denied the bon-bon of a protective tariff on sugar; while democratic Arkansas always held it strictly constitutional for the General Government to improve the navigation of White and St. Francis rivers.

The great principle which had to be put out of sight in this alliance was that of which we have already spoken as pervading the whole Constitution,—that it was necessary to provide restraints upon the caprices, notions, impulses, prejudices and irrational follies of the people at large, and to prevent the popular pleasure at the moment, or what by trickery might be made to seem so, being felt like an electric shock throughout the Government, and reflected, as light is by a mirror, by those in whom the powers of government were vested: to avoid popular elections and constant rotation in office, as much as possible; and to endeavor to ensure in the different departments independence of the popular humours, and in the legislation of the country consistency and permanence.

The motto of the Northern Democracy was, that 'that country is best governed, which is governed least;' and with them the most excellent merit of any representative body was, that it was 'fresh from the people;' whereas, under the Federal system, and with the influences at work in the States, the danger was, that the people could not be governed enough, or at all, until, as the inevitable and heretofore invariable result of that, they would invite some one to become their tyrant, in order to escape the intolerable evils of anarchy. It was this which the Constitution was particularly anxious to avoid; and to it it was the least recommendation of a legislative body, that it came fresh from the people.

The creed of the Northern Democracy at bottom was, as time has shown, that the most perfect of systems and the only true Democracy would be that in which the humour of the majority at the moment and at every successive moment, should instantaneously be felt, acted on, and expressed in law, as rapidly as, by means of undulation, the tidal wave crosses the wide Atlantic. To them, Constitutions ought, on principle, to have no more permanence than simple laws, and should at any time be subject to change and abrogation by vote of a simple majority, however fraudulently procured. That a Constitution provided only one mode in which it could be amended, and even that that should be done only after a certain number of years, in nowise stood in their way. A convention of the people, that is, a body of delegates got up for the occasion, could amend or even annul it at any time; and so the Constitution of New York was dealt with in 1846. To them, numbers alone seemed to constitute the true basis of representation; and to limit the right of suffrage was to outrage human liberty. It naturally followed, that, black or white, enlightened or brutal, all men should be free and vote. How adopt a principle, and endeavour to escape from its corollaries and consequences? Accordingly, we now see emancipation of the slaves in all the 'rebellious' States acceded to by more than nine-tenths of the North; and a hundred and twenty thousand emancipated negroes, officered by white men, were made use of as part of the means for subjugating the South.

To them, freedom consisted in the right of voting; and if a man boldly dared to say that it was as great an absurdity to proclaim the divine right to vote, as it was to claim for Kings the divine right to reign, he was more to be pitied or execrated than a heretic. Instinct taught the old States of the South, in general, to send their gentlemen to Congress, as far as they could spare them at home; but in the North, under the rule of the Democracy, the appeals of the leaders were yearly made to a lower and then a lower stratum of the populace, until the very lowest deep was reached, and the halls of Congress were infested, under the district system, by the representatives of the thieves, vagabonds and villains of the great Metropolis, and even by some of the thieves themselves, who sat by the side of the delegates or representatives from new Territories, improvised for political purposes, and peopled by the scum and offal of two continents. Gamblers, brothel-bullies, slung-shot assassins, shoulder-hitters, and all the mixed scum and dregs of a motley and heterogeneous hell-broth of population, gave or took away seats in Congress, and claimed the right to control the distribution of the multitude of offices and places which were the prize and plunder of the winners in the wretched controversy. If place and patronage were ever before dispensed by so base a multitude, which is most doubtful, it was only when Athens was in decay or in the worst days of Rome. Even the sale of the Imperial dignity for money, by the Prætorian cohorts, was more respectable.

The theory of the Northern Democracy was, that the people of the United States, including the latest importations, were of a nobler and higher nature than any other that ever existed, needed none of the wholesome restraints of constitutional government, were always in the right, in no danger of losing their liberties, and not liable to be cajoled or corrupted, or of becoming unjust, perfidious and cruel.

Whereas the nature of the human multitude remains the same in all ages. There never was and there never will be a people capable of governing themselves without a system of checks and balances, and when the ever-varying non-sense of the populace, to which demagogues always appeal, is immediately expressed as law. The people of the United States were neither better or worse than others. Capable of being moved and swayed, as the ocean is by the winds, by generous and noble impulses, they were and they continue to be, equally capable of being cruel, capricious and ungenerous; and the late war disclosed the existence of a barbarous, atrocious, murderous and rapacious element among them, of the extent of which we never dreamed.

No people was ever more ready to be cajoled and deceived; none more ready to submit to despotism, when the occasion and the man should arise. This was proven, during the war of separation, both in the North and South; by the tame submission to Presidential usurpation in the one, and to military usurpation in the other. A people must have guides and leaders of some sort; and whenever it thinks itself too wise to need them, it is sure to follow the basest and most incompetent, caring as little for their qualifications as sheep do for the leaders they follow.

To make their State Constitutions as variant as possible, in every possible respect, from that of the United States, was the constant aim of the Northern democracy; that all offices might be elective and held by brief tenures, and the incumbents as obsequious as possible to the popular will. To them, DORR was a persecuted patriot, and human rights were sadly invaded, when the General Government proposed to assist the legitimate authorities of Rhode Island, and the Supreme Court of that State decided him guilty of treason. Whereas it ought to have been evident to any thinking man, that such antagonism in spirit and principle could only end in a war upon the National Constitution, and in disastrous ruin. No people can be enamored of two antagonistic systems at once; and if their votes govern, one or the other system must needs go down in the end. This epidemic of making all offices, even to that of Judge, elective by the people, began, however, we are sorry to say, in the South, and its evil effects have not as yet brought about its abandonment.

It was the Northern Democracy that first announced the execrable doctrine, that 'to the victors belong the spoils;' that is, that place, office and occupation under the Government are not employments, to fill which, knowledge, skill, capacity, honesty and fidelity alone should be sought for, as a merchant seeks for them in hiring his clerks and accountants; but rewards, to be given to the competent and incompetent, the skillful and the ignorant, the honest and the rascally alike, by way of payment for past political services, often of the dirtiest kind, rendered to the successful party or individual. This doctrine, which could be generally acted on only in a country already in its decline and decadence, and which would eminently befit a community of thieves and pirates, was the justification of the system of removal from office and employment of all not of the true faith and the household of Democracy, which was born and grew up to full vigour under a Southern President. It became the common law of the Democratic party, and at last of all parties, and was acted on in every State, until the life-blood of the country putrefied in its veins, and it fell to pieces like rotten meat.

And yet, to the South it was above most things important that the government should be honestly and economically administered; neither of which is possible or intended under such a system; and the least desirable of all things to its gentlemen was, being placed upon the same level, and brought into bed-fellowship, with the hungry packs of vulgar villains whom such a doctrine authorized to infest the avenues to the Presidential Mansion, and elbow honest men even in the President's presence. Under its influence, ISAIAH RYNDERS and his fellows became a power in the Nation, and personages were seen in shoals in every society in Washington, whose garb and manners disclosed the ruffians that once if they had strayed there would have slunk away from the sight of all gentlemen.

It would have been an interesting sight to NATHANIEL MACON or JAMES MADISON, to see a deputation of subterraneans from New York, under the auspices of JOHN COCHRANE, ushered into the presence of WASHINGTON, the first President of the Republic, to demand of him a particular distribution of places and employments in the Custom House and elsewhere in that paragon of immaculate cities, as they were in the habit of forcing themselves into the presence of Mr. President BUCHANAN. It would have been as refreshing to hear the reasons urged by Mr. COCHRANE for particular preferences, as it would to see WASHINGTON dictating, as his degenerate successor did, the share which certain politicians in Pennsylvania were to have in the emoluments of a profitable contract for supplying coal to the Government, or for doing the public printing at unconscionable prices.

"WHAT SHALL IT PROFIT A MAN, IF HE GAIN THE WHOLE WORLD, AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL?"

God gives Nations the opportunity to be great, when He most seems to have forsaken them. It is not in the fierce collisions and fiery excitement of war that a people can prove the highest title to be called heroic and of a great soul, but in its endurance of the hardships and miseries, the reverses and calamities of the conflict, and the bitter consequences of defeat. A people may be very brave and yet not be truly great: for the courage of a people is but the aggregate courage of its individuals, and very base and very worthless men are often brave and even reckless in action. It has been said, indeed, that the worst men make the best soldiers. That is not true: but it is true that neither a love of freedom, nor true honour, nor the heroism of endurance, nor moral courage, are indispensable qualifications of a gallant, dashing, daring soldier. Bravery is common to the best and worst of men, to an ARNOLD and a WASHINGTON, a MARLBOROUGH, an ALVA and a PHILIP SIDNEY.

The people of the Southern States are undergoing the last great test and trial of their manhood. The world looks curiously on to see whether they were worthy to have won the independence for which they struggled, and which they would have won, had it not been that legitimacy and prejudice against slavery arrayed all Europe against them. Legitimacy feared the precedent that our success would establish for the initiation of oppressed Nationalities, and as a demonstration of the right of each to independence. Slavery aliened from us the sympathies of all the old world.

Illy prepared for the struggle, and labouring under every possible disadvantage, the Southern people bore up gallantly, and on many bloody fields, and by much and long endurance of privations and miseries, won much glory, of which an ungenerous victor and history teeming with lies cannot deprive them. But their bravery proved greater than their endurance, because before the war ended, more than half of our soldiery were absent from the ranks. We were, indeed, worn out and exhausted, not conquered by arms. The Federal armies won no field of glory like Blenheim, or Austerlitz or Friedland.

The people of the South do not alone wear the laurels of a gallant struggle against superior numbers and resistless power. The Mexicans struggled courageously against CORTEZ, as the Carthaginians did against Rome. The Tyrolese desperately resisting the French legions, the Scots struggling for independence under WALLACE and BRUCE, the French Huguenots led by CONDE, the Poles revolting again and again against Russia, the Circassians holding their mountains against the whole Muscovite power more years than the months of our contest, the Hungarians, as unprepared for the strife as we were, the men of Antwerp and those of Zaragoza, the Hebrews defying the power of Rome,—all these and many another people fought as gallantly and endured as steadfastly all the sufferings and horrors of war, as the people whom LEE led and JACKSON died for, and of whom it is now insultingly demanded that they shall confess their cause to have been an unrighteous one, and themselves rebels and traitors deserving an ignominious death by strangulation, and that they shall abandon and disown their living leaders, and proclaim that their dead heroes sleep in dishonored graves.

Hitherto this people have not lessened the glories of their heroic struggle, either by too abject a submission or a peevish and undignified anger and impatience. They have accepted with a sad and mute resignation the calamities of defeat and the indignities offered by the victor. They have honorably kept their parole, in the spirit as well as the letter. The swollen arrogance of those who have not known how to make their victory glorious by magnanimity, has hardly stirred them to recrimination. Yielding to all just and some ungenerous demands, and true to the principles of that Constitution, which when they confederated for the struggle they re-enacted as their supreme law, they quietly put aside the odious amendment which power demanded they should adopt, and refused to make the perpetual disfranchisement of those who had led them in the field and guided them in council, their own act. They still have the right to strew flowers on the graves where their dead rest, because they have refused to brand them as traitors, and have not proven themselves unworthy of those whose bones the victors coarsely insult, nor exchanged their own share in the glories of these immortal heroes for an ignominious safety, and a citizenship which, so purchased, and shared with the negro, will not be more honorable than the swine-herd's collar.

The Victor, determined to bend or break the spirit of the Vanquished, now puts their manhood and heroism to the severest test, and gives them the opportunity, which, if they are indeed of a great nature and a noble temper, they might well have coveted, to prove themselves entitled to the world's honour and admiration. Their State Governments are annihilated, their laws and Constitutions abrogated, or existing only by sufferance of a single will: military despotisms are established over them, authorized to deprive them of the right of trial by jury and subject them to trial by Military Commissions: the privilege of the Writ of Habeas Corpus is taken from them: the penalties of treason are held in terror over them: they are impoverished, plundered by unlawful taxes, and their wives and children pine away to skeletons for want of bread, and feebly moan and wail among the ruins of their homes, and wish that they had died with their sons and brothers, whose last moments were cheered with the delusive dream of their country's independence, which they fondly thought should gild their graves with its glories through all the coming ages: They are menaced with confiscation of their estates, and perpetual disfranchisement: They hold their property, their personal liberty, their lives, at the mercy of a SHERIDAN, a SICKLES or a THOMAS, and tremble under the fierce, harsh government of the sword, which has supplanted the sceptre of the law. They see in the future a Government by negro votes, maintained by the bayonets of a negro soldiery. All the future is dark as night, and out of it ruin and beggary and rapine and outrage stare upon them like hideous spectres. Want and Woe, and Terror and Despair roll over them like a sullen sea, and their life is a burthen that seems too heavy to be borne. They are almost like those excommunicated in the dark ages that seem returning, from whom all fled with horror, and near whom, as they lay dying, none dared to come, to cool their parched lips with a cup of water, or, after death to give their remains decent burial.

What is it they are commanded to do, that they may escape from these horrors, and be no longer the lepers of the Republic?

It is demanded of them that they shall unite with the negroes and those among them who deserted or betrayed the South, in the work of reconstruction.

That is all; but this is what that coöperation means.

It means that they shall unite with the negroes and loyalists in electing Delegates to the Conventions that are to make new Constitutions for their States.

It means that having so voted, they shall be themselves the doers, by their Delegates, or those elected by a majority of votes against their votes, of whatsoever shall be done by these Conventions.

It means that they shall thus, by the most sacred and binding of all acts and instruments, by Constitutions that, signed and sealed by every one of themselves, are to be their act and deed, and the supreme and paramount law, enact as part of the Constitution of the United States that identical amendment which they not long ago rejected with loathing and disgust.

It is said by those who, having determined to submit, look round to find excuses that may justify them to themselves, that they rejected the amendment, because when they voted against it, it was at their option to accept it or reject it; but that now they may well vote for it, since no option is left them, but Congress has enacted that it shall be adopted or the new Constitutions be mere nullities. If they had accepted it when they were free to reject it, it could have been pleaded that they acted as their judgment dictated. One could then safely treat the accursed thing with contempt and indignity, declare in the loftiest manner that the South would never dishonour itself by accepting it, and freely express his opinion of it and its authors. It is a new species of merit, to consent out of fear of loss of estate or personal injury, or because of the pressure of the injustice of Military Despotism, to do that which a little while before one scorned to do as entailing dishonour.

It means that the people of the South shall adopt it as their creed, in violation of all truth and contrary to their solemn convictions, that the Constitution of the United States never was a compact between the States, that the doctrine of State-rights was never other than an indefensible heresy, and State Sovereignty a mere figment of the imagination; and thus shall assist to denaturalize the Government and enable a combination of Northern States at any time to establish a Despotism.

It means that they are to admit that during the war and after its close there were no lawful Governments of their States, but only usurpations clothed with the semblance of authority; and that the present Constitutions of those States were and are mere worthless nullities, which Congress had the right to treat as such, and because there was neither Government or Constitution, to rule the States as subjugated Provinces, as Turkey rules its Pachaliks. Not force and the inexorable will of the conqueror [illegible] to annul these Constitutions, binding in conscience and honour upon our people; but the Victor demands that they shall themselves disloyally concur in their destruction, and proclaim aloud the immense falsehood that they have had no binding force since the fatal struggle for independence began.

It means that they are to sign and seal an acknowledgement, to be in all time irrevocable, that the living and the dead who fought for independence were traitors, guilty of an indefensible revolt against a lawful government, for which crime the living hold their lives at the sufferance of the States that conquered them, and the dead lie shrouded in ignominy and dishonour, in shame and infamy, as malefactors.

It means that the people of the South are not to submit to negro suffrage and all its hideous consequences, as a curse imposed upon them by a resistless force; but are themselves to give their free assent, by a Constitutional guarantee which they are never to be able to avoid on the ground of duresse, to the political equality and the right to vote and hold office of the negro; and thenceforward, whatever the majority of votes, though that majority be composed of ignorant and worthless negroes, with a lean minority of knavish whites, against the intellect, the virtue and the worth of the State, may determine, shall be their own act in law, for the consequences whereof they are never to escape responsibility.

It means that, by thus consenting, under the stress of a necessity less than those to which men have in many ages deemed it unworthy to yield, the people of the South are to sell and convey themselves in fee to the political scoundrelism of the Huns and Tartars of the Northern States, and become the hired bravos and cheaply purchased assassins of constitutional liberty.

It means that, in order to save from confiscation the estates of those who led the common people of the South into the rash adventure of secession, and to persuade the Congress of the United States graciously to bestow the alms and stipend of en[illegible]isement on a few persons among those to whom the South owes its calamities and is likely to owe its perpetual humiliation,—to be again as always, the pawns with which those play the game for place, who are willing to accept the condescending approval of the negro as the equivalent of the divine right to reign of the Stuarts, the Bourbons and the Braganzas,—the common people of the South are to consent and agree that those on whom they imposed the burthens of leadership, and on whose brows they have thereby set the crowns of thorns which those earn as their chief reward who sacrifice themselves for the sake of others, shall be deprived for life of all the dearest rights of freemen, and live as foreigners in the land for which they sought independence.

And when the people of the South shall have done all this,—when they shall "with the falsified names of loyalty and obedience, have coloured over their compliances,"—when our modern politicians have found out "how to qualify and mould the sufferance and subjection of the people to the length of that foot that is to tread on their necks," breaking the spirit and courage of the people, and "washing over with a superficial colour of necessity the unsightly bruise of honour," although "God has not so modelled the government of the world as to make it the duty of any civil community to submit to the cruelties of tyrants;"—when all the glories of the war are for this people turned into disgraces, and all the honours of a fruitless struggle into shames,—what will the people have gained, what profit of any kind will they have reaped, to remunerate them for these sacrifices which the insolence and pride of power demand? We will attempt to answer this question to-morrow.

The Opinion Nationale says Prussia has haughtily refused to evacuate Luxemburg. This is rank ingratitude and her insolence is unbearable. The French press is unanimous in holding that, whether the annexation is consummated or not, Prussia must be required to evacuate. The government alone is silent.

La Liberte contains a powerful article deprecating the inactivity of the French government, and says war is inevitable unless at least Bismarck exhibits a moderation to which he is not accustomed. The paper containing the article had an immense sale and perusal, and caused a profound sensation. The sale of the paper was prohibited on the street.

The importation of American bonds from Germany for sale here, is very large. The quotations at Frankfort to-day for 5-20s was 71¼.

Advices from Algeria say that all surplus troops are ordered to join the army of Legrus.

MARRIED.

DRAKE—CASH—On the 24th inst., at the residence of B Cash, Esq., Forrest Hill, by the Rev. B Miller, JNO. B. DRAKE, Esq., of Memphis, to Miss FANNIE A. CASH, of the former place.

May your life path be in bowers,
Dear as was your bridal kiss,
Strewn by all the loveliest flowers,
Full of happiness and bliss.

MISSISSIPPI.

—The editor of the Clarion is again at his post, having recovered from his late illness.

—A new market-house at Jackson is to be built as soon as the contract can be let.

—The eighteenth anniversary of the Phi Sigma society in the state university will be celebrated on the 6th of May, when J. S. Moore, Esq., of Alabama, will deliver the annual oration.

—The Natchez Democrat announces the death of Mr. E. T. Calvit last Thursday, under the following circumstances: "He was drowned at Bieller's landing, while attempting to rescue his stock and hands from drowning in the rush of waters occasioned by a crevasse at or near Bieller's. Three negro women were drowned at the same time. Mr. Calvit was a young man much esteemed. In the late war he was a member of the Breckinridge guards, and did faithful service."

—Rt. Rev. Bishop Green performed the rite of confirmation on several persons at Jackson on the 22d instant.

—The Vicksburg Herald contains the following particulars of a fatal shooting affair at that city: A shooting affair took place yesterday at the post headquarter's guard house, resulting in the death of private McCarty, company A, who was a deserter, and the probable mortal wounding of private Corcoran, of company F. They were prisoners, and were shot by Corporal Boyle for mutinous conduct. A board of officers, consisting of Maj. Lynde Catlin, Capt. Charles C. Hyatt, and first Lieut. Geo. Haller, of the twenty-fourth infantry, was convened by Gen. Dudley to investigate the case, who exhonorated the corporal from blame, and commended him for prompt discharge of his duties.

—The Natchez Democrat asserts that in Adams county they use dead oxen for mile stones, but thinks, unlike the old institution, they would be better farther apart.

—At Vicksburg, on Monday night, the ladies of Christ church give a grand concert for the benefit of Bishop Green.

—The Great Eastern is not likely to prove a good speculation this time. Her charterers expended £140,000 sterling to refit the vessel for passenger traffic, basing great expectations upon the great exposition. They pay £1000 sterling per month, besides, of course, all running expenses and port charges. The port charges at New York, this late visit, were $6366, (gold), besides tug-boat, commissions, advertising, etc., and the entire proceeds of the voyage was only $20,628. Each trip should produce eighty or one hundred thousand dollars to pay expenses.

No. 1.
THE CHINGARORA
ANTI-NERVOUS
SMOKING TOBACCO!

THE CHINGARORA TOBACCO grows from the rich soil of the "ORIENT," and is possessed of a peculiarly delicious flavor entirely unknown to the tobaccos of all other climes. But its unprecedented popularity has sprung from the fact of the entire absence of that deadly poison Nicotin, which permeates every other tobacco, and which is the one and sole cause of the distressing nervous diseases, dyspepsia, etc., which most invariably, sooner or later, follow the indulgence of the pipe and cigar. At the recent analyzation of tobacco from all parts of the world, at the Academy of Sciences, in Paris, the renowned chemist, M. Lamoureaux, declared that while European and American tobacco contained fully eight per cent., and the purest Havana tobacco from two to five per cent of Nicotin, the CHINGARORA did not contain one discoverable particle of that deadly poison, a drop of which, extracted, will destroy life.

Our agent at BOMBAY has shipped us large quantities of the CHINGARORA during the past two years, and although we have been pressed to supply the demand for this delicious luxury, the veteran smoker, yet we are now prepared to offer it in unlimited quantities, at a price much lower than some American tobacco of a far inferior quality.

A connoisseur has but to smoke the American tobacco and cigars, which are invariably chemically flavored, to be disgusted with the medicinal taste which leaves a nauseous, unhealthy coating in the mouth, and in time seldom fails to shatter the nervous system.

The natives of the "ORIENT" smoke the CHINGARORA from morn till night, from youth to age, and are happily unconscious of the wild, distressing fire which courses through the veins of the inhaler of the fumes of tobacco containing Nicotin.

We invite every lover of the weed to try the CHINGARORA, and guarantee unprecedented pleasure in its delicious flavor.

Sold everywhere at $1 a pound.

Dr. DEL. LEOPOLD in personal attendance. Dispensary open from 8 a.m. until 9 at night.
Ten years' experience in Europe and on this continent, with constant application to the study of the pathology and treatment of the diseases of the Eye, Ear and Chronic Complaints, has reduced Dr. Leopold's practice in these diseases to a decided certainty, and placed him among the first in the profession as a specialist.
The Doctor's former patients in Tennessee and surrounding States, as in times past, will recommend persons that are suffering with Blindness and Deafness to call on the Doctor for examination and treatment at his New Dispensary. ap18 1modaw

CRIMINAL COURT.—In the case of Thos. Bolger and Thos. Burns, of the mackerel brigade, charged with larceny, were both acquitted. The case of P. D. Beecher, charged with conspiring to take the life of Dr. O. R. Early, will be taken up to-day.

AIDING AND ABETTING.—One Sam. Meredith was arrested yesterday, charged with aiding and abetting the escape of a prisoner who was in custody on a charge of highway robbery. 'Squire Lee examined the case and sent the accused up for trial.

A NICE PAIR.—A brace of negroes, who call themselves Joe Street and Henry Street, were arrested yesterday, charged with stealing a quantity of clothing from Mr. George Slaughter. They will be examined before 'Squire Creighton on the 29th.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.—Mr. E. McCormick, of the Southern express, has several times, lately, placed us under obligations by the delivery of papers from the east and other points, ten or twelve hours in advance of the mails. May his shadow never be less.

SENT UP.—The cutlery thief, John Weston, was up yesterday before Justice John C. Creighton, for examination. After hearing the evidence, the magistrate thought that John ought to have an audience with the judge of the criminal court, and decided accordingly.

GET THEM OUT.—A number of drivers were arrested by the police yesterday, their licenses having expired. It is necessary that parties should promptly renew their permits. The idea that they will be warned as to when the time expires, has exploded. Collector Davis can't see it.

CORRECTION.—We stated yesterday that Pompey McDonald stole a pocket book from Tom Palmer. We by mistake got the names misplaced—Tom stole from Pompey, and not Pompey from Tom. Pompey bears a good character, and we make the correction with pleasure.

PORK THIEF.—A negro who rejoices in the name of William Brooks was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Mr. Justice Creighton, charged with stealing a quantity of bacon, the property of his colored brother, C. Jones. The accused comes up for examination to-day.

ELMWOOD.—We are requested to state that for the accommodation of ladies and others desiring to visit Elmwood cemetery to-day, that a number of extra cars will be run on the Beal street track, and omnibuses will be on hand beyond St. Agnes to convey parties to the cemetery.

NEW MEMPHIS THEATER.—The benefit of Mr. and Mrs. Lanagan took place last night at the New Memphis theater, when the comedy of Who Killed Cock Robin, and the farce of A Family Failing, were presented. The Lanagans fully sustained their well earned reputation of first-class artistes. We hope to see Mr. and Mrs. Lanagan on the boards of the New Memphis next season.

CHEAPER THAN DAYLIGHT.—In the dark and gloomy days of rain a gas light would have been a luxury; but in these days of sunshine gas lights in the daytime are superfluous, and we hardly think that the liberality of the gas company in allowing the street lamps to burn in the daytime will be appreciated by the people, even if the city pays for the uncalled for luxury.

REGISTRY OF DEEDS AND MORTGAGES. Samuel Folwell to Jack Ellis, deed $315, lot 14, block 22, Fort Pickering; J. L. Glover to D. H. McGowan, bill sale $3000, steam mill; J. R. Horton to William H. Grider, deed $3000, lot on northwest corner of Broadway and Main streets; Moses Levy to Kahn & Fueberg, quit claim, lot next to No. 51 Front street; H. L. Douglass to John B. Robinson, quit claim, lot No. 1, block 52; J. S. & F. S. Williams to F. M. Crenshaw, deed $1200, tract of land on Loosa Hatchie river.

THE BENEFIT.—The numerous friends of the genial Chris. Steinkuhl should not forget that his benefit comes off at the New Memphis theater to-night, when the Marble Heart will be presented. Mr. James Carden will appear in the principal character. This is the last Friday night of the season, and the friends of the popular treasurer will no doubt turn out en masse, as they should. Chris. deserves a full house, and we hope he may get it.

MUNIFICENT.—As an evidence that the wealthy are not always the most grasping, we may state that W. B. Greenlaw, Esq., in person, informed his tenants on Main street, yesterday, that their rents would be from date reduced thirty per cent. This voluntary act on the part of a wealthy and influential landlord, in these depressing times, is worthy of all praise. Such acts as these will be fully appreciated, and it is to be hoped that others will follow the noble example of Mr. Greenlaw.

BILLIARD MATCH.—The grand champion match for the gold mounted cue, offered to the amateurs of Memphis by Mr. McKeough, comes off this evening at eight o'clock, at the Eldorado billiard hall. The final contestants are Robert Ferguson (the late competitor with Mr. Frink, at the Overton), and Charles K. Gutherz. These two gentlemen have very decidedly proven their superiority amongst Memphis amateurs, consequently the lovers of billiards may anticipate a rich treat this evening. The game consists of five hundred points, all caroms.

ODD-FELLOWS' CELEBRATION. — To-day the different lodges of Odd-Fellows of this city will celebrate the forty-eighth anniversary of the establishment of the order in the United States, by a grand procession, to be followed by an appropriate address by Rev. J. B. Ferguson. The procession will move at two o'clock from Odd-Fellows' hall, down Main street to Union, out Union to Shelby, down Shelby to Beal, out Beal to Second, up Second to Madison, down Madison to Third, up Third to Adams, out Adams to Second, up Second to the First Baptist church, where the column will halt, open to the right and left, and form line, in close order. The chief marshal of the day and aids will pass between the lines to the extreme left; returning, will be followed by the orator of the day and the entire column to the church, where the ceremonies will take place.

CEREMONIES AT ELMWOOD.

Correspondence Between the Commander of the Post, Mayor Lofland and Others.

The Friends of the Dead Will Honor their Memory.

This morning at eleven o'clock the friends of the Confederate dead propose to decorate the graves of the fallen who lie in Elmwood cemetery with appropriate flowers. We hope that no interference on the part of the military will take place to interrupt this innocent and religious ceremony. We publish the correspondence without comment at present:

HEADQUARTERS,
MEMPHIS, TENN., April 24, 1867.

To His Honor, the Mayor of the City:

Sir: The daily papers of this date having announced that arrangements have been made for a public demonstration at Elmwood cemetery on Friday next, over the graves of those who fought against the government in the late rebellion, and as the public ceremonies proposed are evidently intended to honor the cause they gave their lives for, and are therefore treasonable and inflammatory to the disloyal element still existing in our midst, it becomes my duty, as the military representative of the government at this station, to see that a stop is put, without delay to such proceedings.

But to prevent the special interference of the military, particularly in this community, where, for sometime past, the greatest harmony and good feeling has existed between the civil and military authorities and citizens, I desire you will prohibit any processions, speeches, or other public demonstrations in honor of the rebellion or men who fell in its service, and confine the arrangements for Friday to the simple act of mourning for deceased relatives in the customary manner. I am sir, very respectfully, your obed't servant, C. A. M. ESTES,
Capt. in 25th U. S. Infantry, Commanding Post of Memphis.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
MEMPHIS, TENN., April 25, 1867.

Capt. C. A. M. Estes, 25th U. S. Infantry:

Sir: In reply to your letter handed to me last night, in which you desire me to give assurances that I will prohibit any procession, speech or other public demonstration in honor of the Confederate dead buried at Elmwood cemetery, I have to state that I know of no contemplated action in regard to the ceremonies alluded to that requires the interference of municipal authority.

Your communication, however, has been sent to the Rev. Dr. Ford and other parties whose names are mentioned in connection with to-morrow's ceremonies; and I am satisfied that they have no disposition to do anything to disturb the harmony and good feeling existing between the military authorities and the citizens. Respectfully, your obedient servant.
(Signed) W. O. LOFLAND, Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
MEMPHIS, TENN., April 25, 1867.

Capt. C. A. M. Estes:

Dear Sir: Since writing the accompanying communication, I have seen Rev. Dr. Ford, who informed me he would call and see you at twelve o'clock to-day.
Very respectfully,
(Signed) W. O. LOFLAND, Mayor.

Dr. Ford waited upon Capt. Estes with the following letter:

MEMPHIS, TENN., April 25, 1867.

Capt. C. A. M. Estes, 25th U. S. Infantry:

Sir: The Hon. W. O. Lofland, mayor of this city, has just shown me a communication from you in regard to the prohibition of "any procession, speech, or public demonstration in honor of the Confederate dead buried at Elmwood cemetery," and as I was selected as the speaker on the occasion, he suggested that I communicate with you in regard to the matter. Permit me to say that the ceremony of to-morrow, (as it was last year), is designed to be a simple tribute of affectionate regard to brothers, and friends, and countrymen, who fell in a cause which they thought right; that no parade, or procession, or other display is contemplated except the decoration of their humble graves with evergreens and flowers; and I assure you that what will be said by me will be a semi-religious discourse—not political in its bearing—not calculated to arouse passion, nor lessen the respect which the soldiers who fought on either side feel for each other. With these assurances it is to be hoped that you will not feel called upon to interfere with the simple and innocent ceremonies of to-morrow.
Respectfully, S. H. FORD,
Minister of the Gospel.

HEADQUARTERS, MEMPHIS, TENN.,
April 25, 1867.

Sir: In reply to your gratifying assurances of this date, both verbal and written, that the ceremonies at Elmwood cemetery to-morrow, the 25th instant, are to be of a religious nature, and that your proposed discourse will not be of a political nature, which would necessarily tend to the excitement of sectional prejudices, but will have a tendency to increase feelings of amity, I have the honor to inform you that I regret having been compelled to interfere even thus far in the matter. Yet, feeling that my duty has been performed in obtaining these assurances, I remain, very respectfully,
(Signed) C. A. M. ESTES,
Capt. 25th Infantry, Commanding Post.

Subsequently, Col. Kerr sent an invitation to the commandant and received a reply. We append the letters:

MEMPHIS, TENN., April 25, 1867.

Sir: To-morrow, (Friday) 26th, at eleven o'clock a.m., in conformity with a time-honored custom of all christian countries, the ladies of our city will decorate with flowers and evergreens the graves of their dead fathers, husbands, brothers, sons and friends who fell in the late unhappy civil war, and you, as the representative in our midst of the most gallant army on earth, are hereby respectfully invited to be present upon that interesting occasion, to offer that meed which one generous soldier always so much delights to render to the virtues of another. I am, very respectfully,
JOHN S. KERR,
Marshal of the Day.

To Capt. C. A. M. ESTES, 25th Infantry, Commanding Post of Memphis.

MEMPHIS, TENN., April 25, 1867.

Sir: Your kind invitation to the officers of this command to visit Elmwood cemetery to-morrow, the 26th instant, is just received. In reply to the same, I have the honor to state that we shall be most happy to accept, and will be present if possible.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your most obedient servant, C. A. M. ESTES,
Capt. 25th Infantry, commanding Post.
JOHN S. KERR, Marshal, Memphis, Tenn.

A TOUCHING SCENE.—One of the most touching scenes we have ever heard of occurred yesterday at Elmwood cemetery on the occasion of the burial of the late John M. Claridge. The deceased's mother has been blind for three years, and he had always been very affectionate and kind, in fact more so than the majority of dutiful sons generally are. The death of Mr. Claridge and the tragic manner in which it was brought about, was of course very distressing to the poor blind mother. We are told that as the corpse of her son lay in state, she frequently felt of the face, and especially about the wound, which was in the forehead, but the most distressing occurrence took place, as we have said, at the burial. She was assisted to the spot by Col. Beaumont and her second son, and at the conclusion of the burial the berefted blind mother, with a burst of feeling, knelt on one of the mounds, taking it for the grave of her son, and commenced feeling it with a despair and wildness that sent a thrill of sorrow to all present. Many were the eyes that were moistened by the touching scene, and we are sure that we but express the sentiments of all present when we hope that the barbarous cause of this sorrow will be yet made to pay the extreme penalty of the law.

A KIND ACT.—In passing down Main street yesterday morning, we saw a man with only a small boy for his attendant, standing on the pavement. His appearance was such as to command respect from even a casual observer. On inquiry we found that he was a native of Maryland, and had been a captain in the Confederate army. He was totally blind, having lost his eyesight by the explosion of a shell at the battle of Petersburg. He had letters to some prominent citizens, endorsing him as a good and worthy man. When he landed in the city he had some funds, but was robbed by an infernal scoundrel of his all. While relating his story, a noble lady came forward and listened attentively. Before he had gotten through, this lady, an honor to her sex and to our noble countrywomen, said, "My boy, you must not want for means! here is ten dollars for you;" and, giving her address, told him to call at her residence for further aid. It is such acts as these that ennoble our people and prove to the world that, with all our misfortunes, losses of property and failures, our ladies have still their native charity, and are at all times ready to bestow it upon the worthy.

SWEET SMILE WALTZ.—Our thanks are hereby tendered to Mr. Henry Farmer, the talented composer, for a copy of the exquisitely beautiful piece of music bearing the above title, which, with the good taste usually characterizing our friend Harry, he has dedicated to the much admired and accomplished wife of our townsman, Mr. George M. Gill, than whom a more perfect exemplar of all that is lovely and loveable in woman our broad land cannot produce, and whose sweet smile doubtless suggested the title of the composition. Mr. Jas. A. McClure, of Nashville, is the publisher, and it may be purchased of Messrs. Bernard & McClure of this city.

ST. GEORGE'S CRICKET CLUB.—The members of this club met yesterday for the first time this season, on the grounds adjoining the Pigeon Roost road, for play. On their arrival several members of the Chelsea cricket club joined them, and a good social game between the different clubs was played. We hope soon to chronicle a match between them. From the play yesterday the S. G. C. C. seem to have the advantage.

LECTURE ON PHONOGRAPHY.—Mr. Reuben Daily will deliver his lecture on the art of phonography at the common law courtroom to-night, at eight o'clock. Admission free. Ladies are invited to attend.

The Aurora Oil.—The introduction of this oil is destined to work a great revolution in the lighting world. It possesses many advantages over all other means of light, from the fact that it is much cheaper than gas or coal oil, is free from any offensive smell, and best of all, non-explosive. We have examined it thoroughly, and without hesitation pronounce it superior to anything extant for the purposes for which it is recommended. It is also superior to turpentine for paints, oils and varnishes. The proprietors, Messrs. H. C. Dewitt & Co., have an office at 24 Madison street, but they dispose of state and county rights to manufacture only. Their patent has seventeen years to run. Territory is being sold rapidly, and parties desiring to make money will find this a good investment. Don't forget, 24 Madison street, up stairs. ap21 tf

MISCELLANEOUS

THE PATENT AURORA OIL!

WE want men everywhere to study their OWN INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle and is NO MORE explosive than a tallow candle. Any lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen, not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make 75 bbls. per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis, and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single County is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

[From the N. Y. Freeman's Journal.]

PRAYER OF THE SOUTH.

BY REV. A. J. RYAN, AUTHOR OF "THE CONQUERED BANNER."

My brow is bent beneath a heavy rod!
My face is wan and white with many woes,
But I will lift my poor, chained hands to God,
And for my children pray, and for my foes.
Beside the graves where thousands lowly lie,
I kneel—and, weeping for each slaughtered son—
I turn my gaze to my own sunny sky,
And pray, Oh! Father, may Thy will be done!

My heart is filled with anguish, deep and vast;
My hopes are buried with my children's dust;
My joys have fled—my tears are flowing fast;
In whom, save Thee, our Father, shall I trust?
Ah! I forgot Thee, Father, long and oft,
When I was happy, proud, and rich and free;
But, conquered now, and crushed, I look aloft,
And sorrow leads me, Father, back to Thee.

Amid the wrecks that mark the foeman's path
I kneel—and, wailing o'er my glories gone,
I still each thought of hate, each throb of wrath,
And whisper—Father! let Thy will be done.
Pity me, Father of the Desolate!
Alas! my burdens are so hard to bear;
Look down in mercy on my wretched fate,
And keep me, guard me with Thy loving care.

Pity me, Father! for His holy sake
Whose broken Heart bled at the feet of Grief,
That hearts of earth, wherever they shall break,
Might go to His, and find a sure relief.
Ah, me! how dark! Is this a brief eclipse?
Or is it Night with To-morrow's Sun?
Oh! Father! Father! with my pale, sad lips,
And sadder heart, I pray—Thy will be done.

My homes are joyless, and a million mourn
Where many met in joys forever flown;
Whose hearts were light, are burdened now, and lorn,
Where many smiled but one is left to mourn.
And ah! the widows' wails, the orphan's cries
Are morning hymn and vesper chant to me;
And groans of men and sounds of women's sighs
Commingle, Father, with my prayer to Thee.

Beneath my feet—ten thousand children dead—
Oh! how I loved each known and nameless one!
Above their dust I bow my crownless head,
And murmur—Father! still—Thy will be done.
Ah! Father, Thou didst deck my own loved land
With all bright charms, and beautiful and fair;
But foemen came, and with a ruthless hand
Spread ruin, wreck and desolation there.

Girdled with gloom—of all my brightness shorn,
And garmented with grief, I kiss Thy rod;
And turn my face, with tears all wet, and worn,
To catch one smile of pity from my God.
Around me blight, where all before was bloom!
And so much lost—alas! and nothing won;
Save this—that I can lean on wreck and tomb,
And weep—and weeping pray—Thy will be done.

And oh! 'tis hard to say—but sad, 'tis sweet—
The words are bitter, but they hold a balm;
A balm that heals the wounds of my defeat,
And lulls my sorrow into holy calm.
It is the prayer of Prayers—and how it brings,
When heard in Heaven, peace and hope to me;
When Jesus prayed it, did not angels' wings
Gleam 'mid the darkness of Gethsemane?

My children, Father, Thy forgiveness need!
Alas! their hearts have only place for tears;
Forgive them, Father, ev'ry wrongful deed
And ev'ry sin, of those four bloody years.
And give them strength to bear their boundless Loss,
And from their hearts take every thought of hate;
And while they climb their Calvary with their Cross,
Oh! help them, Father, to endure its weight.

And for my Dead, my Father, may I pray?
Ah! sighs may soothe, but prayer shall soothe me more!
I keep eternal watch above their clay—
Oh! rest their souls, my Father, I implore!
Forgive my foes—they know not what they do—
Forgive them all the tears they made me shed;
Forgive them—though my noblest sons they slew—
And bless them—though they curse my poor, dear Dead!

Oh! may my woes be each a carrier-dove
With swift, white wings, that, bathing in my tears,
Will bear Thee, Father, all my prayers of love,
And bring me peace in all my doubts and fears.
Father! I kneel 'mid ruin, wreck and grave,
A desert-waste—where all was erst so fair;
And for my children and my foes I crave
Pity and pardon—Father! hear my prayer!

—The assessed value of Broadway, New York, from Bowling Green to Union square, is $54,200,000, not including the City hall, Park and churches.

—The Hartford Courant says as soon as Maximilian is out of Mexico a strong pressure will be brought to bear upon the Juarez government for the cession of Lower California to the United States.

—The schooner Republic, laden with lime for Toledo, was towed through ice to clear water on the 18th, being the first vessel from Buffalo this season. A boat arrived from Detroit next morning.

—The allied war in South America still drags on. A battle was fought at Corupaity on the 22d of February without decisive results.

—Advices from London represent that the speech of the King of Prussia at the close of parliament, produced distrust.

—The wheat crop in the vicinity of Fort Smith, Ark., is said to be looking well.

—The Prussian government has allowed 30,000 thalers a year to complete the cathedral at Frankfort-on-the-Main.

—One hundred and twenty persons were baptized, by immersion, at Boston and vicinity last month.

—The evidence of a case now on trial at New York showed that a coffee manufacturing firm in that city used black lead, sand and rock stone to give gloss and weight to their productions.

—On the night of the 18th, the express car from New York west on the Erie railroad, took fire near Chenming station, from sparks from the engine, and was totally destroyed. Loss $30,000. The safe containing the money was saved. The express messenger had a narrow escape.

—The Republican Canadian is the name of a paper recently established in Montreal, Canada, as the organ of the French population. It favors the annexation of that country to the United States.

—Blind Tom has arrived in Paris and is creating quite a sensation in medical circles.

—M. Mariette, the famous Egyptian antiquary, has arrived in Paris for the purpose of arranging the contents of the Egyptian museum, which will be among the greatest curiosities of the exhibition.

—The Vicksburg Times says that owing to the high water, the buffalo gnats are more troublesome this spring than they ever were before. Horses and cattle are perishing in the neighborhood of New Charthage from the torments of the insects.

The Houma Civic Guard says that the plantation of Mr. Michael Knight, situated on the Opelousas railroad, in the parish of Terrebonne, and containing 1100 acres, was sold a few days ago for $6500.

—In Belgium there is a strong party who, like the liberals of England, are agitating for an extension of the suffrage.

—An exchange ridiculing our recent purchase of Russian-America says: The highest price given for agricultural and mineral lands in any quantity. Continents will be bought at a price not exceeding ten million dollars, payable in gold or its equivalent. This is worthy the attention of European governments owning lands in the western hemisphere. Address Wm. H. Seward, Esq., Washington, D. C.

—Robert Toombs, who is called by radicals the Danton of the late rebellion, is now in quiet at his home in Washington, Wilkes county, Ga. He writes in a private letter that he prefers the political advantage of America to living anywhere else in the world; and that no true patriot of the south will forsake his native land.

—A mutiny among the colored troops has occurred in Texas and seven were shot, one fatally, before order was restored.

—Coons must be decidedly plentiful in Arkansas. A few nights since a party of three freedmen caught fourteen in one evening and six opossums.

—H. W. Beecher is nominated for a seat in the New York convention. He is undecided whether to go to Albany or Jerusalem.

—A countryman, near Albany, Ga., out on a fire hunt, recently shot and killed a valuable blooded mare, whose eyes he mistook for those of a deer.

—A negro girl, aged fourteen, in Western North Carolina, bids fair to eclipse blind Tom as a pianoist, and already plays by ear the most difficult operatic pieces after hearing them only once.

—A mechanic down east has invented a machine which can be made to fan a sick person indefinitely, after being set in motion, rock a cradle, shut doors or windows, or pull off wet boots. He has applied for a patent.

—A traveler on the Savannah river above that city, en route to Augusta, shot with a rifle an alligator fourteen feet long.

—Fresh tomatoes are in the Charleston market, but they have been imported from Cuba.

—A number of horses and mules have been destroyed by buffalo gnats in Dyer and other counties bordering on the Mississippi river. They are more destructive to the latter than the former.

—An interesting diverson will be "the congressional buffalo hunt," which is announced to take place on the plains next summer. Wade, Yates, Chandler, Howard, Patterson, Morrill, Nye, Cameron, Poland, among Senators, are written down for the party; and for representative buffalo-hunters, Covode, Bingham, Williams, Orth, Baldwin, Hooper, McPherson, Lawrence, Marston and Ketchum, constitute a lively portion. The national picnic party referred to must meet in Yankton, Dakotah, about the first of June, and thence proceed to the prairies.

—It is supposed that Montreal banks have been victimized to the extent of $30,000 by spurious gold in the coinage of sovereigns or half sovereigns. The counterfeiter, who gives his name as Macdonald, was arrested on Monday, April 15th, and a large quantity of gold coin found secreted in a partition behind the bed and in the ceiling, as well as two dies for half-sovereigns, and a roller, plaster molds, melting irons, battery, etc. The half sovereigns found were beautifully executed, and bore in common with the sovereign passed at bank the date 1849, the appearance of age being produced artificially. They were produced of copper, covered with a thin layer of gold, and were nearly the exact weight, though had the gold been weighed, as is customary in England, it would probably have been detected.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND BUSINESS.

The weather was fair and pleasant yesterday, with but little doing on the levee.

The river at this point continues to rise slowly. At St. Louis the rise is still perceptible, while the Ohio from Pittsburg down is on the decline. St. Francis, White and Arkansas rivers are falling. From these reports we may safely assume that the Mississippi has reached its highest mark for this season.

Boats in Port.

Dan Able, Anna, Minneola, W. A. Caldwell, Natoma, City of Cairo, Empire.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The splendid steamer Des Arc, complete in every respect, passed Duvall's Bluff Wednesday noon, so we learn from a dispatch to Capt. Levy, and will connect with the cars at that point on Monday, for Little Rock. She will be in port to leave again to-morrow evening at 5 o'clock. Capt. John Elliott commands, and Jimmy Thompson and Matt. Glass officiate as clerks. Levy & Miller are her agents.

The new and commodious Great Republic, in command of Capt. Donaldson, will go out for New Orleans to-morrow at 5 p.m. Capts. Dravo and Barr are her popular clerks. Larry Harmstad & Co., agents. Sam. Shock, passenger agent.

The W. A. Caldwell, Capt. Woodburn, will go out for Fort Smith and all points on Arkansas river to-morrow at 5 p.m. Levy & Miller, agents.

The Natoma, Capt. Cummings, will leave for St. Francis river, this day at 5 o'clock p.m.

The Empire, with Capt. King in command, will leave for Louisville this day at 5 p.m. Larry Harmstad & Co., agents.

The Minneola, of the Dean line, Capt. Miller, will leave this day at 5 p.m. for Cincinnati. Jas. T. Bourne & Co., agents.

The Victor, for Osceola, goes out to-morrow evening in command of Capt. House.

The Plaquemine Pioneer says:

This city is fast becoming a depot for the commerce of the interior parishes. There is considerable talk of constructing a railroad from the town to the Indian village to connect with packets running from that place to the Attakapas parishes. The most sure and feasible way to secure navigation between this point and the Attakapas, would be to dredge bayou Plaquemine from below the dyke to the Indian village, which would secure permanent navigation for all time, despite all crevasses and overflows, which must ever prove destructive to railroads, as has been fully demonstrated in the case of the West Baton Rouge and Opelousas railroads.

There are not as many going to the Paris exposition as was expected some months ago. The Great Eastern, which was fitted up to accommodate 3000 passengers, took out less than 200. The steamship Havana, which was newly furnished to run between New York and Havre, for the exhibition, has been withdrawn from the line for lack of patronage.

The session of the government life-saving commission will last two or three weeks longer. No decisions will be made till the close of the session.

Spurgeon, the famous London preacher, sometimes gets off a pretty good thing. "Brethren," said he the other day, in the course of one of his wonderful sensational sermons, "If God had referred the ark to a committee on naval affairs its my opinion it would not have been built yet."

Capt. Dryden, Falls pilot, writing from Evansville on the second, says an outrage was perpetrated on the insurance companies and on the lives of the passengers on board the steamer Emma Floyd, Capt. W. G. Voris. She arrived at Jeffersonville this morning, drawing five feet, and full of freight and people; inquired how much water there was on the falls—Mr. Dryden answered, six feet and six inches over the rocks. The captain rung the bell and went over the falls without a pilot, Hugle at the wheel. She run over the Backbone and into the basin, head on, and only for her good quality for backing out, she would have sunk in deep water, no telling how many lives would have been lost. The captain would have been to blame and accountable for every one's life on said boat. I think it is my duty to notify the insurance companies and the traveling community of what boat they ship on, or captain they travel with. You will please give this a place in your columns.

A dispatch from Leavenworth says: The Missouri river is higher than at any time since 1844. Farmers in the bottoms are moving back. Everything movable is swept away. Two miles of the Missouri Pacific railroad, between Wyandotte and Kansas City, have been abandoned, and passengers are transferred by boat. The Omaha Union Pacific railroad track is covered with water for miles, and so badly damaged that it will be several weeks before trains can run through.

A correspondent writing from Bolivar county, Miss., to an exchange says: I would be willing to wager my hat that more than one-half the negroes in this county to-day are sitting on the banks of some dirty little bayou eagerly seeking to catch a grinnell or mud cat not longer than my finger. Let old Thad. come on with his universal suffrage; if the darkey has not got time to study the political questions of the day I would like to know who has.

GEORGIA ITEMS.

—The Savannah Republican of the 18th reports rumors of scenes of violence brought by the Central railroad passengers, stated that two persons were discovered hanging dead on trees contiguous to the railroad.

—At the close of the meeting at which ex-Gov. Brown spoke, in Savannah, last Thursday, and which is represented to have been numerously attended and enthusiastic, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we, the people of Savannah, in mass meeting assembled, having heard the views of Hon. Joseph E. Brown, ex-governor of Georgia, do hereby cordially thank him for the kindness of accepting the invitation of a number of our citizens to address them.

Resolved, That it is the duty of every citizen to accept the situation, and to aid by his countenance and vote the congressional plan of reconstruction.

—The eulogium pronounced upon the late Rt. Rev. Bishop Elliott, before the Georgia historical society at Savannah, by S. Cohen, Esq., will be published in pamphlet form.

—Under the new "regime" Rome is made a military post, and the jurisdiction of the commanding officer extends over some eight or ten counties. Brevet Lieutenant Colonel J. F. Ritter, a graduate of West Point in class of 1856, the Courier says, is in command. The garrison is to be composed of companies H and G, of thirty-third regiment regulars.

—The Savannah river is being rapidly cleared of the obstructions sunk in the channel during the late war, and will soon be better and safer, in all respects, than before the Confederate engineers placed so many obstacles in the way of the federal fleet.

—The Atlanta Intelligencer of the 19th contains the following in regard to colored voters: At the election held in this city last week by the colored population for a delegate to the state educational convention, there were 1259 votes cast. Whether or not that is the full colored vote of this city we have no means of ascertaining, but as no important question was involved in the election, we are inclined to the opinion that it was not a full vote by several hundred. There were three candidates in the field, viz: Willis Love, 950 votes; Charles Paine, 442 votes; and R. H. Badger, 227 votes. We regret to learn that many of our colored brethren were indiscreet enough to give the election a political complexion, and that the enthusiasm in many instances, amounted to fisticuffs. The terms "rebel" and "union" were in free use at the polls, for all of which there was no necessity whatever. The convention will assemble at Macon on the first of May, at which Willis Love, the successful candidate, will be in attendance.

—The Athens Watchman says of horse stealing: This fashionable amusement seems to be in a flourishing condition in the up country. During the sitting of the superior court at Carnesville last week, some scamp, "not having the fear of the law before his eyes," stole the horse of Capt. Willoughby, the revenue assessor of that district, from the stable belonging to the hotel in that place. If the presence of judge, juries, solicitor, sheriff, jail, and all the other paraphernalia of the law, will not restrain these gentlemen, what will? It is, we think, very important to the ends of justice that two or three of them should be hung, as a warning to the remainder!

[WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS.]

FROM AUGUSTA.

AUGUSTA, GA., April 25.—Governor Jenkins, in replying to the communication from General Pope, asking if he had seen the order organizing the state under the military bill, before advising non-action to the people, says he had supposed he was exercising such freedom, in expression of opinion relative to public matters, as seemed, still accorded to all the citizens of the state. In the future he will do and say whatever is required by duty and oath of office; he desires to avoid all conflict or controversy. Pope, after discussing matters fully, says he will be compelled to remove all officers who, while in office, use their influence to prevent the execution of the laws, but hopes that harmonious relations may continue between the military and civil authorities.

FROM NORFOLK.

NORFOLK, April 25.—Senator Wilson addressed a crowded audience, composed mostly of negroes, last night. Gov. Pierpont and others followed. There was great enthusiasm.

FROM ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—Fourteen members of Hodges' company of rangers surprised a camp of Indians about one hundred miles from Prescott, and killed thirty-two of them. One ranger was killed and three wounded.

Two distinct earthquakes were felt yesterday. No harm done beyond the vigorous shaking of furniture, crockery, etc. The shock was felt throughout Kansas and in different parts of Missouri, shaking houses, walls, cracking windows, and creating great alarm.

A squad of the seventh cavalry, under Maj. Cooper, killed six Cheyennes at Comorone landing, thirty miles west of Fort Dodge. Cooper lost one man killed and one wounded. This is the first blood of the Indian war of 1867.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Sheridan gratefully accepted a donation of $5000 from the southern relief commission to relieve the suffering overflowed portion of Louisiana.

FOREIGN.

BERLIN, April 24.—The official press to-day editorially says, regarding the proposition submitted by the great powers: "This government did not find it necessary to appeal to neutral powers for protection of her rights, and she will not leave Luxemburg."
